The director—Gregory Metcalfe—will attend the screening and will lead a discussion afterwards.

Part road movie, part performance video, part travelogue. WORDS : WALLS is a trip through the scarred landscapes of the West Bank with a group of artists – including two of Scottish poetry's leading lights: Liz Lochhead (the Makar) and William Letford – as they encounter the many and varied forms which resistance takes.

They left having barely glimpsed the struggle that is existence in modern day Palestine. Each had seen enough, though, to change their view of the world irrevocably.
